A Solution to Your Small Business Bookkeeping - By Tracy Unverzagt

Cumming, GA - Are you a business owner trying to find a balance between shuffling your company's paper work, staying organized, and getting your job completed? Simply trying to keep your business records straight and pay Uncle Sam can be a burden. Here is your solution- a website service that is customized just for you, "Job Costing Made Simple," located at www.MooreWare.com.

Always offering a 30 days free trial, Job Costing Made Simple (JCMS) will provide the small business owner with simple accounting at their fingertips. It is safe, reliable, intuitively easy to use and reasonably priced. Any type of business owner that deals with multiple financial transactions in a single day will benefit from this job costing system.

Bob Mullinax, owner of Southern Design Builders, said, "It's like a quick book system but a lot easier to use." Bob now does his own bookkeeping, entering bills as they arrive to him daily. He currently has 20 of his builder homes tracked in the system. This allows him to control the expense of each lot with ease. He immediately knows how much he has put into building each home.

The Job Costing system was created with simplicity in mind. Web and database specialist, Ray Moore, developed the accounting solution in two years or 3,200 man hours. His thoughts were to design a Bookkeeping System that would work for builders, contractors, heating and air companies, interior designers and many other professions that have a need for business tracking. Records of expenses, vendor costs, material expenses, client/vendor lists and more can be available for you. Your accountant can log in too and get your taxes rolling without you even being there!

This business solution eliminates the loss of data due to home computer viruses or computer failure. Never worry about accidentally spilling your coffee again. Each user of JCMS will have their own secure data base. This allows for fast access and privacy. Members can even login from the public library. With double levels of pass code logins, hackers will be kept away. Members will never have to worry about losing their records to viruses. Just in case a virus slips into your home computer; your data is backed up daily, with an off-site backup to follow, weekly.

Consider all of this costing less than a cup of coffee a day. With a $200 activation fee and $50 a month, members receive updates to the system free for the first year. Moore also offers upgraded services to members, such as tracking and printing needed tax forms. Customization of the system is available to fit any business.

With a data programming and operating systems degree from Armstrong Atlantic State University in Savannah, Moore has given back to the information age by taking the idea of book keeping and making it simple. Moore stated, "I want to see the small business owners focus on making decisions that make them money, instead of spending their time learning software, backing up data, and sitting in their accountant's office."
